

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

SIGMA XI QUARTERLY

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE

Floyd Karker Richtmyer Edwin Emery Slosson
Henry Baldwin Ward

VOL. V

SEPTEMBER, 1917

No. 3

THE NEXT CONVENTION

The regular annual Convention of the Sigma Xi Society will be held at Pittsburgh Saturday, December 29, in connection with a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Besides ordinary business, such as action on applications for new Charters, the plan to raise funds especially from non-active alumni members for the endowment of two or three Sigma Xi research Fellowships as outlined in the article of President Stieglitz, printed in the June number of the QUARTERLY, will be brought before the Convention. Other items will be found in the records of the Executive Committee meeting printed in this number.

Further details regarding especially the time and place of meeting will be published in the December number of the QUARTERLY. A notice concerning the meeting will also be posted at headquarters of the American Association.

This constitutes an official notice to chapters to take up the question of the appointment of delegates. Since, according to the terms of the Constitution, the Convention is composed of duly authorized delegates from chapters represented, those chapters which fail to appoint representatives will be prevented thereby from taking part in the deliberations. It is important that each chapter should be represented both for the general welfare of the Society and for the good of the individual chapter.

It is urged that the chapters should select delegates who will discharge the duties as well as accept the privileges granted them. It naturally follows that those chapters are most influential which are represented by men of standing and of familiarity with the aims and ideals of the organization as well as of sympathy with its purposes.